HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS
AND
Hoofland's German Tonic.
The Great Remedies for all Diseases of the LIVER, STOMACH, OR DIGESTIVE ORGANS.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS
Is composed of the pure juices (or, as they are medicinally termed, Extracts,) of Roots, Herbs, and Barks, making a preparation, highly concentrated, and entirely free from alcoholic admixture of any kind.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC,
Is a combination of all the ingredients of the Bitters, with the purest quality of Santa Cruz Rum, Orange, &c., making one of the most pleasant and agreeable remedies ever offered to the public.
Those preferring a Medicine free from Alcoholic admixture, will use
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.
Those who have no objection to the combination of the bitters, as stated, will use
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC.
They are both equally good, and contain the same medicinal virtues, the choice between the two being a mere matter of taste, the Tonic being the most palatable.
The stomach, from a variety of causes, such as Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Nervousness, Debility, etc., is very apt to have its functions disturbed. The Liver, sympathizing so closely as it does with the stomach, then becomes affected, the result of which is that the patient suffers from several or more of the following diseases:
Constipation, Flatulence, Inward Piles, Fulness of Blood to the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust for Food, Fulness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried or Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a lying posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Back, Chest, Limbs, etc., Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Constant Imaginings of Evil, and Great Depression of Spirits.
The sufferer from these diseases should exercise the greatest caution in the selection of a remedy for his case, purchasing only that which he is assured from his investigation, and inquiries possesses true merit, is skillfully compounded, is free from injurious ingredients, and has established for itself a reputation for the cure of these diseases. In this connection we would submit those well known remedies—
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS
AND
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC,
Prepared by DR. C. M. JACKSON,
PHILADELPHIA, PA.
Twenty-two years since they were first introduced into this country from Germany, during which time they have undoubtedly performed more cures, and benefited suffering humanity to a greater extent, than any other remedies known to the public.
These remedies will effectually cure Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Chronic or Nervous Debility, Chronic Diarrhœa, Disease of the Kidneys, and all Diseases arising from a disordered Liver, Stomach, or Intestines.
DEBILITY,
Resulting from any Cause whatever; PROSTRATION OF THE SYSTEM, induced by Severe Labor, Hardships, Exposure, Fevers, &c.
There is no medicine extant equal to these remedies in such cases. A tone and vigor is imparted to the whole system, the appetite is strengthened, food is enjoyed, the stomach digests promptly, the blood is purified, the complexion becomes sound and healthy, the yellow tinge is eradicated from the eyes, a bloom is given to the cheeks, and the weak and nervous invalid becomes a strong and healthy being.
PERSONS ADVANCED IN LIFE,
And feeling the hand of time weighing heavily upon them, with all its attendant ills, will find in the use of this BITTERS, or the TONIC, an elixir that will instill new life into their veins, restore to a measure the energy and ardor of more youthful days, build up their shrunken forms, and give health and happiness to their remaining years.
NOTICE.
It is a well established fact that fully one-half of the female portion of our population are seldom in the enjoyment of good health, or, to use their own expression, "never feel well." They are languid, devoid of all energy, extremely nervous, and have no appetite.
To this class of persons the BITTERS, or the TONIC, is especially recommended.
WEAK AND DELICATE CHILDREN,
Are made strong by the use of either of these remedies. They will cure every case of MARASMUS, without fail.
Thousands of certificates have accumulated in the hands of the proprietor, but space will allow of the publication of but a few. Those, it will be observed, are men of note and of such standing that they cannot be believed.
TESTIMONIALS.
HON. GEORGE W. WOODWARD,
Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pa., writes:
Philadelphia, March 18, 1767.
"I find 'Hoofland's German Tonic, useful in diseases and of great benefit in want of nervous action
Yours, truly,
A man Bitters' is a good of the digestive organs,
GEO. W. WOODWARD."
HON. JAMES THOMPSON,
Judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.
Philadelphia, April 28, 1866.
"I consider 'Hoofland's German Bitters' a valuable medicine in case of attacks of Indigestion or Dyspepsia. I can certify this from my experience of it. Yours, with respect, JAMES THOMPSON."
FROM REV. JOSEPH H. KENNARD, D. D.,
Pastor of the Tenth Baptist Church, Philadelphia.
Dr. Jackson—Dear Sir: I have been frequently requested to connect my name with recommendations of different kinds of medicines, but regarding the practice as out of my appropriate sphere, I have in all cases declined; but with a clear proof in various instances and particularly in my own family, of the usefulness of Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, I depart for once from my usual course, to express my full conviction that, for general debility of the system, and especially for Liver Complaint, it is a safe and valuable preparation. In some cases it may fail; but usually, I doubt not, it will be very beneficial to those who suffer from the above causes.
Yours, very respectfully,
J. H. KENNARD,
Eighth, below Coates St.
FROM REV. E. D. FENDALL,
Assistant Editor Christian Chronicle, Philadelphia.
I have derived decided benefit from the use of Hoofland's German Bitters, and feel it my privilege to recommend them as a most valuable tonic, to all who are suffering from general debility or from diseases arising from derangement of the liver.
Yours truly,
E. D. FENDALL.

VACANT PLACES.

How much sooner in this life's mutations
We seek our shattered idols to replace,
Not one in all the myriads of the nations
Can ever fill another's vacant place.

Each has his own; the smallest and most humble,
As well as he revered the wide world through;
With every death some loves and hopes must crumble
Which never strive to build themselves anew.

If the fair race of violets should perish
Before another spring-time has its birth,
Could all the costly blooms which florists cherish
Bring back its April beauty to the earth?

Not the most gorgeous flower that uncloses
Could give the olden grace to vale and plain—
Not even Persia's gardens full of roses
Could ever make the world so fair again.

And so with souls we love; they pass and leave us—
Time teaches patience at a bitter cost—
Yet all the new loves which the years may give us—
Fill not the heart-place aching for the lost.

New friends may come to us with spirits rarer,
And kindle once again the tear-drowned flame;
But yet we sigh, "This love is stronger, fairer,
And better, it may be—but not the same!

Wit, Humor and Wisdom.

☞A Sheriff's officer was once asked to execute a writ against a Quaker. On arriving at his house, he saw the Quaker's wife, who, in reply to the inquiry whether her husband was at home, said he was, at the same time requested him to be seated, and her husband would speedily see him. The officer waited patiently for some time, when the fair Quakeress coming into the room, he reminded her of her promise that he might see her husband.

"Nay, friend; I promised that he would see thee. He has seen thee. He did not like thy looks; therefore, he avoided thee, and hath departed from the house by another path."

☞In my mind there are always three objections to a glass of brandy, after all," said an old toper to an amazed company of young drinkers, who had never seen the "veteran" refuse a glass of anything spirituous.

"How so?" was the general cry.

"Because there must be three scruples to a dram, you know!"

After that there was no alternative but to treat the old toper to his favorite beverage—and he went in for all the scruples, and more too.

☞A traveler was lately boasting of the luxury of arriving at night, after a hard day's journey to partake of the enjoyment of a well cut ham and the left leg of a goose.

"Pray, sir, what is the peculiar luxury of a left leg?"

"Sir, to conceive its luxury you must find that it is the only leg left!"

☞A Frenchman, soliciting relief of an English lady, said gravely to his fair hearer:

"Madame, I nevaire beg, but that I have von vife, vid several small family, dat is growing very large, and nossing to make dere bread out of but de perspiration of my own eyebrows."

☞According to Milton, "Eve kept silence in Eden to hear her husband talk," said a gentleman to a lady friend, and then added in a melancholy tone, "Alas, there have been no Eves since."

"Because there have been no husbands worth listening to," was the quick retort.

☞There is only one thing worse than ignorance, and that is conceit. Of all intractable fools an overwise man is the worst. You may cause idiots to philosophize—you may coax donkeys to forego thistles—but don't ever think of driving common sense into the head of a conceited person.

☞A local editor has just seen a man whom he thinks was pretty well occupied. He had his wife upon one arm, a baby on the other, a basket and cane in his hands, a cigar in his mouth, and two little hopeful heirs hanging on to his coat tails.

☞Doesticks thinks it conclusive evidence of drunkenness when he sees a man "sticking a postage stamp behind his left ear, and attempting to get into a letter box to go by the mail train."

☞An Egyptian paper published in Cairo informs the ladies of that city that "the first of ornaments is cleanliness—that of the body consisting in taking a bath once a month!"

☞The following is Aunt Betsey's description of her milkman:—"He is the meanest man in the world," she exclaimed. "He skims his milk on the top, then turns it over and skims it on the bottom."

☞A crusty old bachelor says that Adam's wife was called Eve because, when she appeared, man's day of happiness was drawing to a close.

☞Reforming the world is like patching an old coat, which will soon need another patch; but if it were not for reformers the world would always be out at the elbows.

☞The French railways warn persons that their lines are no longer of use for suicidal purposes, as they have put cow-catchers on all locomotives.

☞The concluding words of a Utah notice are very pathetic: "He leaves thirteen widows and fifty-four children to mourn his loss."

☞If you want to fatten a thin baby, throw it out of the window and it will come down plump.

☞The most delicate method of giving a lady a key to your feeling, is to send her a lock of your hair.

☞Many a man's tongue is a two-edged sword, one of the edges cutting his friends, and the other himself

Petroleum Nasby Goes to New York.

[From the Toledo Blade.]

NEW YORK, (at a cheap boardin house,) July 4, 1868.

Eff I hed knowd just wat I hed to go through with, I never wood hev figgered for the posishon I now okkepy. Hed I knowd the trubles wich was to beset me, the Corners mite hev gone onrepresented, and the Democracy mite hev nominated a candidate without my help. I am at a cheap bordin house, wich is salubrusly sitooated on an alley, the landlady bein one ov the anshent Kings of Ireland, wich her name is O'Shaughnessy. I coodent get rooms at the Astor, nor at the St. Nicholas, oz I coodent git a clerk to look at me for an hour, and when I did succeed in rivitin the attenshun uv one, he flew into a pashon and ordered me to move on, with the onfeelin remark that he had no room for sich! And that insult mite be added to injoory, the onfeelin woman who presides over the manshen I inhabit, peremptorily refoosed to receeve me until I pade in advance. I tried several places, but ez I hedn't no baggage, the prevailin opinyun seemed to be that advance payment wood be better, and I wuz forst to return to her.

My advenchers on the route were noomerous if not pleasant.

At some pint in Ingiany, where we changed cars, I found the trane we hed to take full uv delegates. In lookin around for a seat I diskivered but one that hadn't two in it, and that one hed in it a disgustin nigger who hed the impoodence to be well dresst, and hed a carpet sack beside him. My Democratic blood riz to wunst. Seein that in a car filled with Democratic delegates, any thing I shood do to a nigger wood be safe, I stawkt proudly up to him holdin my nose.

"Good Lord!" sez I, "wat a smell!"

"Good Lord!" ekoed the delegates wich got on at that stashen, "wat a terrible smell."

"My gentle Afrikin frend," sed I, seezin him by the collar, "I regret the necessity uv sayin disagreeable things and still more uv doin em, but the fact is yoor impoodence in gittin into a car uv white gentlemen, with the disgustin odor, inseparable from and part uv the Afrikin race, is rather too much. And more especially do I wonder at you keepin yoor seet, while I and these other gentlemen are standin."

"Out with the nigger!" yelled the lately arrived delegates, "hustle the stinkin cuss."

"Merciful hevens, wat a smell!" sung out others uv em, "hist him!" "hist him!"

Seein myself thus backed, and feelin a little zeal would be safe, ez niggers can't vote, I knockt his hat out uv the winder, and follored up that demonstration with a serious attempt at liftin him out uv the seet. I wood hev succeeded, but the nigger resisted, and resisted vigorously, to wit: He knockt three uv my front teeth down my throte, pulled out wat little there was left uv the hare that hangs in scanty festoons about my venerable temples, and blackt both my eyes. I was lyin on my back in the passage, somewhat astonished, the nigger standing over me, with his boot heel raised over my face, when some gentlemen came in from another car and restrained him.

"Mr. Williams," sed they, "let him up. He's poor white trash, and not wurth wastin yoor indignashen onto. Let him up, Mr. Williams, let him up."

"Sirs," sed I, risin to my feet, tremulous with rage, "is this the treetment I am to expect all the way to New York? Am I to be pounded to a jelly by a nigger—a stinkin nigger, sirs, whose oder ovin now makes the car ontenable to gentlemen uv refined sensibilities—and to heer the nigger addrest as 'Mister,' after that, instid uv bein tored to peeces by the infuryated specktators. O, shame, where is thy blush!"

"Yoo mizrable cuss," sed one uv these gentlemen, "apologize at wunst to this gentelman for yoor insultin roodness, or we'll chuck yoo out uv the cars. Apologize, sir, to Mr. Josef Williams, delegate at large for the Stait of Tennessee."

I almost fainted. This nigger then was a delegate! He was a regular delegate, armed and equipped with regular credenshels to the Democratic Nashnel Convenshen, and I bed been guilty in my zeal uv assaultin uv him! Gladly I apologized, and further I bumbly beggd permission to sit beside him, wich he accordid with a graciousnis I never saw ekalled.

It was astonishin the change that crept over the injeany delegates.—They crowded around us and shook him by the hand—they didn't smell any odor at all any more; on the contrary they seemed to like him. They addrest him as "Mister," and several uv them in introdoocin him to their frends who got on at various stashens, yoosed the prefix "Honorable." It's wonderful wat a difference it makes with a nigger to hev a vote, and also how he votes! Hed that Williams bin infected with Ablishnism, I make no doubt that the stench wich I reely fancied I smelt when I fust undertook to subjoogate him, wood hev continyood to the end uv the trip. In olden time it was observed that slave niggers didn't smell—it was only the free ones. It is a settled fact now that Democratic niggers are noomerons. I mite hev known, however, that the nigger was a free nigger, by the way he pitched into me. No nigger in a state uv servitude wood ever hev did such a thing. That much they owe to the war, anyhow.

My principal objeck in goin to Noo York was to do wat I cood toward secoorin the nomination uv Jothro L. Kippins. I found the delegates badly tore up. The offers made for votes was so redeculously low that there was much disgust manifested. The truble was that the market was overstocked. Hed the Convenshon been pretty okally divided, and balance of power held by a few clost mouthed souls, they could hev made a good thing uv it.—But where a whole Convenshen is in the market and all their infloenshal frends, no candidate kin afford to buy. I withdrew Mr. Kippens to wunst. Ez he hez but a small farm, and that morgaged to a grossery keeper, the delegates I approacht laft me to scorn.

I was on the Committee on Resolushons, or rather was in the room ez a sort uv advisory committee while the resolushons was bein drafted. Genral Forest uv Tennessee, was partiklerly anxshus that a resoloshun shood be adoptid denouncin the Radicals, who was, with unholy hands, a strivin to destroy the best Government the sun ever shone upon, and one the destrucshun uv wich wood be a calamity wich unborn millions wood shed teers over. He desired a resolushen pledgin the Democracy to stand by the old Stars and Stripes, wich flag had braved a thousand breezes, and was synonomos, et sottery. Mr. Wooley, Mr. Cobb, (Mrs. Cobb's husband,) and Perry Fuller pertikolery, desired a resolooshen demandin the turnin out uv offis uv corrupt men, that the Government mite be administered with sumthing like the purity wich distinguished it doorin the administration uv the lato lamented Boochanan.

Vallandygum insisted that a plank be inserted with recognized nigger sufferage, but that was withheld until it cood be definitely ascertained whether Mississippi was reely carried by nigger votes or not. Ef a majority uv the niggers did reely vote the Democratic ticket, it was decided that they shood be recognized as our ekals—of not, we'd see em d—d fust.

I dropt into the Soljers' and Sailers' Convenshen, but I didn't stay long.—My sole indignated ez I saw seated among em the very sutler who refused me credit when I was servin ez a drafted man in 1862; and also a claim agent who got ten dollars uv me on the promise uv gettin my bounty, wich when he got it he absorbed in fees, costs and commissions. There was of course some true men. There was soljers there which resigned early in the war, on account of its being a Ablishin war, and others who left because Linkin wuznt rapid enuff in makking uv em. Major Generals. There was no limit to their speekin. Every wun had the speech wich he delisered at the Cleveland Convenshen in 1866 carefully preserved, and they all insistee on deliverin em, wich ez I left tha were doin, all to themselves. Ef they kin stand it I am willin.

Wat the platform will be, or who the candidates will be, the Lord only knows. I am prepared for anything, and so are all the delegates. I kin hurrah for Chase, and with ekal vigor kin swing my hat for Vallandygum, and I find all the delegates similerly affected. The Post Offis is the lean kine which swallers up all the others. We are willin to sink everything in Post Offis. That my sincerity may not be doubted, let it be remembered that I hev rid with a nigger from Ingeany to New York; hev been whaled by one and hev felt good over it, hev bin hurrahin for an old line Ablishnist, and swearin the while I liked it. Ef any other evidence uv flexibility is needed, I feel ekal to the task. Politically I am ekal to all emergencies.

☞It is announced that the Siamese twins, after living to be 59 years of age, and raising large families of children, have determined to have the singular ligament which unites them severed by a surgical operation. The reason assigned for the act will be acknowledged to be a good one. The twins have reached an age when disease may be expected to attack the system, and being at this moment in a physically healthy condition, are naturally apprehensive that the one may communicate disease to the other, which will prove fatal to both. The ligament uniting the twins is situated near the vital organs, and by lapse of time has been developed into a hardened, integumental link, by means of which such sensations and impressions are conveyed from one to the other that a perfect physical unity is established between them. Will the severance of this bond prove a harmless operation, like the amputation of a foot or hand, from which each will readily recover? Or it will prove fatal to both? The subject was discussed in the Academy of Physicians and Surgeons in Paris many years ago, but in consequence of the very diverse opinions expressed no attempt was made to perform the operation.

CORRECT SPEAKING.—We advise all young people to acquire in early life, the habit of using good language, both in speaking and writing, and to abandon, as early as possible, any use of slang words and phrases. The longer they live, the more difficult the acquisition of correct language will be; and if the golden age of youth, the proper season for the acquisition of language, be passed in its abuse, the unfortunate victim of neglected education, is, very properly, doomed to talk slang for life. Money is not necessary to procure this education. Every man has it in his power. He has merely to use the language which he reads, instead of the slang which he hears; to form his taste from the best speakers and poets of the country; to treasure up choice phrases in his memory, and habituate himself to their use, avoiding, at the same time, that pedantic precision and bombast, which show rather the weakness of a vain ambition than the polish of an educated mind

Our Correspondence.

DEAR GLOBE:—Thinking you would accept an article from one who has been and still is an admirer of your interesting sheet I have made bold to write you. The weather here is warm—the thermometer to-day standing at 95 degrees in the shade. But it is good for the crops. We have had a splendid summer so far, and there never was such a show for wheat, oats and barley, since 1857. The corn, the staple crop of Illinois, I am sorry to say is not so good, but still we will have a fair crop. The reports from all parts of the State are about the same. Morris is the county seat of Grundy County; it contains about 7000 inhabitants, among whom the Catholics are by far the most numerous. There are a great many Pennsylvanians here and quite a number from old Huntingdon, to whom your paper is as welcome as you yourself would be, would you but pay us a visit, though we scarcely dare hope for such a thing.

We are as a general thing, a thrifty, well-to-do set of people, grafted from the stock of the same kind in Pennsylvania. Morris is situated on the Rock Island and Chicago Railroad, and the Lake Michigan Canal Company are making it quite a business place, it contains some large grain warehouses and some very fine buildings both public and private. A few miles to the west we have the flourishing cities of Ottawa and La Dalle, the head of navigation on the Canal, a few miles to the east is the city of Joliet, containing the State Prison, and the junction of the R. I. and C. R. R. with the Alton and Chicago Railroad. The country is generally rolling prairie which is now almost all under cultivation. This is a wealthy country and bids fair in a few years to be the richest of the States on account of the fertility of the soil. The people are greatly excited about the coming political contest, but we are firm in the faith and expect to carry the day by large majorities. You may count on Illinois doing her duty. We have only one paper published in our town. The "Herald and Advertiser," edited by C. E. Southard, and containing the general news of the day.

I shall not impose on your good nature any longer, but shall bring my letter to a close by wishing you success, &c. Would be pleased to have a copy of your paper sent us as we are getting up a club. Be kind enough, &c.

Yours, &c.,
W. R. WARNE,
Box 94, Morris, Illinois.

BEAUTY.—Emeline Palmer says:—What is beauty, after all? Each eye makes it for itself. You think Smith's lady-love raw-boned and hard-featured. He calls her a "magnificent woman," and wonders what you see in your little angel with her baby face and stature. So it is the world over; and yet, we would each give something to be beautiful after our own fashion. How the powders and lotions which are to bestow upon poor bilious mortal's skins of satin and snow, and the hair-dyes and pomades, and cosmetics of all sorts, sell, we need not mention to prove the facts. In France, old ladies are even being made over, at the cost of half their fortunes. Heaven keep me from ever catching a glimpse of one of those enameled, dyed and miserable old creatures after the renovation by the way.

Yes, we all want to be beautiful; and, if only our ideas of beauty were what they should be, we might accomplish our desire easily. Meekness and love make all faces pleasant. Were we good we should be beautiful.

We all feel this. There are plain features so charming with the sparkle of good humor, that we love them. There are blemished faces so sweet that they are pleasanter to look upon them than the most perfect. After all, it is in the expression that the actual charm lies. So that were some one to promise the secret of beauty for twenty-five cents and a postpaid envelope, he would scarcely be an imposter should he return the goldon rule with instructions to learn and practice it. If we only could do this earnestly and truly for one generation, the next might wonder whether it were not a fable that such a thing as ugliness was ever known upon old earth.

HOW TO STOP A DONKEY'S BRAYING.—Father Huc, that famous Catholic explorer of the interior of China, relates that on one of his long journeys among that strange people, his caravan embraced an unusual number of jacks among the donkeys employed as carriers of the expedition; that these jacks, at every resting place kept up such an intolerable braying, especially toward morning, as to render sleep impossible to the abbe; that at last he complained of this to the master of the donkeys, who instantly replied that his gracious highness should be no more disturbed by this braying; that, sure enough, a quiet night, with its refreshing sleep followed; and that, on inquiring into the cause in the morning, he was pointed to the noisy jacks, each with a heavy stone to its tail. "That," said the driver, "is the way to settle them. The jackass stands upon his dignity, and will not bray unless he can straighten out his tail, and with a heavy stone attached he can't straighten it out, don't you see? Every time he tries it the weight on his tail pulls him down and shuts his jaw."

☞Of the growth of the Astor estate some idea may be formed by the fact that a few years ago Mr. Astor paid a tax of $40,000. This year his tax is $240,000, a sum equal to $700 per day while Commodore Vanderbilt only pays $40,000, which is little more that $100 per day.

☞The Huntingdon (Pa.) Globe (War Democrat) hoists the names of Grant and Colfax and the whole Republican ticket.—Philadelphia Press.

To show the Press and other journals that we have not been behind in the advocacy of General Grant for the position of President, we will refer them to our issue of the 29th of January last, in which we said, in reference to "Our candidates, Grant and Curtin:"

"The situation is such as to leave us only to choose a position with the War Democrats and Republicans who were a unit during the war, and 'fight it out within the lines of the party;' or go over to the support of the men who in 1860 disorganized the Democratic party, defeated Douglas, and controlled the organization in sympathy with rebels and traitors."

Since that day, the 29th of January, we have supported Grant, and intend to support him. Further on, in the same article we said:

"The lessons of the war do not seem to have made the leaders of the Democratic organization wiser or better men. * * * They want a man who was true to their organization during the war—a man like Vallandigham—or a man like Pendleton who was all right but not as plainly outspoken as the 'statesman Vallandigham.'"

The truth of the above assertion has been verified by the doings at the Tammany Convention. We believe that Horatio Seymour was "true to their organization during the war," and that he is a man after Vallandigham's own heart is proved by the fact that Vallandigham nominated him for the position. Again we said:

"The old secession element, has control of the organization still, and if that party should again be elevated to power—to have control of the affairs of the government we would not expect the 'situation' to be any better than it is to day."

And the "old secession element" has control of the organization, and it expects by the election of Seymour and Blair—both of whom were nominated for their positions by men of known secession proclivities—to secure "all" that the Confederacy fought for. We saw this in the beginning of the year, and we "somersaulted," and just so long as we see that the Democratic party will take to its bosom such vipers as Vallandigham and Voorhees, or give its ears to such insidious tricksters as the rebel generals Forrest, Hampton & Co., just so long will we oppose that party. The Democratic party might have worked a reform, as everybody admits, but now they have let that opportunity slip by heeding the insinuations of the rebel leaders and northern rebel sympathizers, (for such we must call Vallandigham, and his admirers,) and the consequences of a sore defeat rest upon them. The "Democracy" have permitted the favorable opportunity to do their country a good service to pass, and if they remain out of power for the next twenty years it will be nothing more than they deserve. We can never help to raise to power leading rebels and their sympathizers.

The vote for the Constitution for the State of Mississippi was 56,231; and against, 63,860.

☞Thaddeus Stevens is in trouble with his friends. Some days ago in a debate in the House of Representatives the following proceedings occurred:

Mr. Stevens of Pa.—I understand the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. Ross,) who first spoke upon this subject, to say that he understood that our outstanding bonds should be paid according to the principle of the New York platform. What is that platform?

Mr. Ross of Ill.—To pay the five-twenties in lawful money.

Mr. Stevens.—You mean by "lawful money?"—

Mr. Ross.—Greenbacks; that is your doctrine and mine.

Mr. Stevens.—I hold to the Chicago platform, and, as I understand it, to the New York platform, upon these bonds; that these bonds shall be paid just according to the original contract.

Mr. Pike of Me.—According to the spirit and letter of the contract.

Mr. Farnsworth of Ill.—According to the law.

Mr. Stevens.—What was that law? That bonds of a certain amount should bear five per cent. interest, in gold. Now, up to the time that they fall due, they are payable in money, just as the gentleman understands "money," just as I understand it, just as we all understood it when we passed the law authorizing that loan; just as it was a dozen times explained upon the floor by the Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means when called upon by gentlemen to explain what it meant, and just as the whole House agreed that it meant.

I want to add that if this loan was to be paid according to the intimation of the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. Ross,) if I know that any party in this country would go for paying in coin that which is payable in money, thus enhancing it one half; if I knew there was such a platform and such a determination this day on the part of any party, I would vote for the other side, Frank Blair and all. I would vote for no such swindle upon the tax-payors of the country; I would vote for no such speculation in favor of the large bondholders, the millionaires, who took advantage of our folly in granting them coin payment of interest. And I declare—well, it is hard to say it—but if even Frank Blair stood upon the platform paying the bonds according to the contract, and the Republican candidates stood upon the platform of paying bloated speculators twice the amount which we agreed to pay them, then I would vote for Frank Blair even if a worse man than Seymour headed the ticket. That is all I want to say.

Mr. Ross.—The Democratic doors are still open, and we will take the gentleman in.

The Republican papers of Lancaster repudiate the position Mr. Stevens has taken, and threaten to throw him overboard at the next election. They say he has gone back on his record and placed himself upon Pendleton's platform.

We never worshiped Mr. Stevens, and don't care how soon he falls into line with the "Democracy." The Republican party will grow stronger as soon as Thad and such as him leave the party.

Political Chip Basket.

Georgia made the twenty-eighth State that has ratified the 14th article of the Constitution, thus completing the three-fourths majority.

Louisville had transparencies of Jeff. Davis, Lee and Stonewall Jackson in the rejoicing over the nominations of Seymour and Blair.

We have been asked how to pronounce Seymour's name. We can't say as we can't see how he will be any more after the election than what he is now.

If Democrats favor Seymour because he favored the war, as they say, then they had better vote for Gen. Grant, because his position during the struggle is not doubted.

If there is one thing more than another that should lead loyal men to ponder over the importance of the coming election it is the fact that all the leading rebels of the South are in favor of Seymour.

The Democratic journals are trying to prove that Seymour was a war Democrat, and try to win votes on that ground. It wont do, gentlemen; just read his doings with the rebel commissioners while Governor of New York.

It is said that Frank Blair was simply nominated by the strategy of his brother Montgomery Blair. He fixed all the Confederate generals for Frank and the Northern Democracy, as over, went down before the rebel charge.

In a speech at the Democratic ratification meeting in Richmond, ex-rebel Governor Vance said: "Seymour and Blair will give us ALL THE CONFEDERACY FOUGHT FOR." And yet Democrats would have us forget the issues upon which the war was fought.

Republicans, remember what was gained by the Democrats last year by 23,339 Republicans staying away from the polls. Make a resolve now that you will not see the Government go into the hands of any other than the patriot Grant and the statesman Colfax, and then fight it out on that line.

It is proposed in Washington to organize a Society of Singing Soldiers, to be composed of men who have served honorably in the Union army during the late rebellion, and who have lost a limb or been otherwise disabled, for the purpose of taking part in the political meetings in the coming campaign for Grant, Colfax and victory.

When Gen. Blair, the Democratic nominee for Vice President, took the stump for the Republicans in 1860, he denounced the Democracy as a vile party, and declared that Stephen A. Douglas "was the most pernicious demagogue in the United States." How can long-lived Democrats vote for such a man, and how can war Democrats advocate one who traduced the patriot Douglas in such unmeasured terms.

There are two good reasons why Seymour will be defeated; first, that he represents enmity to the Government during the war; second, that he represents the politicians as opposed to the people. Gen. Grant will be elected on directly opposite grounds; first, he represents unswerving loyalty to the Government, and second, he was nominated for the position by the people as opposed to the politicians

The Presidential Election.

Even if the Republican party were disposed to ignore the issue growing out of the war the Democratic party would force them upon the attention of the people, by the character of its candidates and the manner in which they are advocated. There are many indications that the unrepentant Rebels and their Northern allies intend to perpetuate in a new form the old conflict. Toombs, the great champion of secession in the Senate and in Georgia, the earnest advocate and supporter of the Rebellion in all its phases, who fled to Europe after the Rebel armies were vanquished, and made himself ridiculous and notorious at celebrated watering-places on the Continent by his vituperation of the United States Government, and his violent denunciation of all the foes of secession is now one of the warmest advocates of Seymour and Blair, and at a recent ratification meeting at Atlanta, he concluded his speech endorsing the Democratic ticket with these significant words:—"As we have now no possibility of fighting with the sword, let us fight with the ballot-box!" Wade Hampton made a declaration equally significant when he remarked that by proper exertions the principles of the rebellion, although overthrown by arms, could still be maintained in a large degree by hearty co operation with the Democratic party. Henry A. Wise, in advocating the election of the Democratic nominees, said that he protested against the New York platform, declaring that he "dissented from its very first plank. Slavery he acknowledged was dead, but secession was not dead." He added that "Seymour he liked, and would vote for, because straws show which way the wind blows." A host of lesser Rebel luminaries in the South, and of Northern sympathizers with the Rebellion, do not attempt to conceal their determination to vote for Seymour and Blair mainly, if not exclusively, because they are the best available representatives of the sentiments which the rebel armies struggled in vain to establish. "The straws" by which Seymour indicated his sympathy with the South were numerous. At the commencement of the difficulties, he denied the right of the Federal Government to coerce a State, uttering dogmas which are the negative counterpart of the positive doctrine of secession. At a later period, after the Confederate Government was organized at Montgomery, he expressed the opinion that the true policy of the American people was to abandon the Federal Constitution, and to withdraw their allegiance from the properly chosen authorities at Washington, so that they might find refuge under the genial guidance of Jefferson Davis, and re-establish the Union by a tame surrender to the most daring and dangerous traitors it had ever produced. Subsequently he obstructed the draft, and made the famous speech which, if it was not intended to incite a Northern rebellion, was certainly well designed to produce the popular commotion which speedily followed in the terrible riots that deluged the streets of New York with blood, and required the transmission to that city at a critical period of the war of a large body of United States troops, who were greatly needed in front. At a later date, but before the conclusion of the war, it is alleged that emissaries of the Rebel Government endeavored to open a correspondence with Horatio Seymour for the purpose of securing his co-operation and assistance in re-establishing peace on disgraceful and humiliating terms. When it is remembered, too, that Vallandigham was the man who first boldly insisted in the New York Convention that Seymour should be nominated in spite of his declination of the proffered honor, it will readily be seen that the Democrats have chosen a thorough representative of the anti-war wing of their party. Instead of gracefully yielding to the decress of the nation and seeking to regain power by directing exclusive attention to new issues, they demand from a patriotic people an endorsement of their old heresies, and they have preferred pleasing their old Rebel leaders and their most radical associates to a change of men and measures or to a recantation of their past errors. For General Blair's services in the war, they consider his avowal of a desire to overthrow the reconstructed Governments a sufficient atonement, and they forgive rather than honor his martial deeds in support of the Union cause. He has so thoroughly identified himself with the movement inaugurated for the purpose of enabling the rebels to regain absolute rule over the South, that they pardon him for his temporary loyalty, and regard him as a faithful supporter of their worst designs.

A bold contrast with the ticket thus tainted with the odors of the Rebellion is presented by the Republican nominees Grant and Colfax, the former worthily representing the military arm of the Union, and the latter the patriotic Congress which never faltered in its support of the national cause. It is impossible that the American people can forget, when they are forced to choose between such contestants for national honors, the great events of the recent war, and the records of the rival candidates. They will instinctively feel impelled to honor the great soldier of the republic, not only for his valorous deeds, and the principles he represents, but on account of the measures, antecedents, and sympathies, identified with, and embodied by, his antagonist.—Phila. Telegraph.

SCALLAWAGS NOT WANTED.—The following advertisement appears in the August Constitutionalist of Friday:

A CARD.—No native "scallawags" or their money are wanted in my store from this date. Negroes and Eastern men are excusable, oven if they are in some cases in opposition to the people of the South; but a native that turns traitor to his country ought not to be tolerated by law-abiding people.

Respectfully, &c.,

W. J. FARR.

Augusta, Ga., June 25, 1868.

This is the first instance on record, wherein a storekeeper has refused to take the money of one whom he considers a "scallawag." What a farcical man he must be.

The tax bill has been signed by the President. It reduces the tax on whiskey from $2 to 50 cents.

Destructive Flood in Maryland.

Loss of Life.—The Streets of Baltimore Flooded.—Mills, Factories, &c., Washed Away.—Over $3,000,000 worth of Property Destroyed.

BALTIMORE, July 24.—Early this morning rain commenced falling, and after a light intermission, it began at about nine o'clock to pour in torrents, and up to this hour (two p. m) has continued to fall incessantly.

That portion of the city adjacent to Jones' Falls is inundated, and travel is entirely suspended in that vicinity. Frederick and Harrison streets are completely flooded, also the Marsh Market Space. The Maryland Institute is surrounded by a sheet of rushing, foaming water, that is carrying everything like hogsheads, barrels, bales of hay, etc., with it. The floors of the stores on the streets named are under water, and the merchants have been compelled to remove their goods to the upper stories.

The loss will be very heavy, but cannot now be estimated. No loss of life has yet been reported.

BALTIMORE, July 24—2 P. M.—The water commenced rising a few minutes before 1 o'clock, and rose at the rate of two inches per minute, and has continued to rise up to this hour. Calvert street is flooded to Lexington, within a few feet of Monument Square. North street is flooded almost its entire length to a depth of four to eight feet. Holiday street to Fayette street is flooded, Ford's Theatre being entirely surrounded by water, which is passing down Holiday and Baltimore streets. Gay, Frederick and Harrison streets are entirely submerged.

The water on Jones' Falls is several feet above the bridges, and it is not known whether they have been swept away. On many of the wharves near the Falls the water is several feet deep. A city passenger car was swept from the track on Gay street down Harrison street, with a number of passengers in it. The wildest rumors prevail in regard to the numbers drowned, some estimating the number at seven; other say all were saved but one, Mr. Ward, a printer. A large number of dray horses and drivers are lost. There are no communications between the eastern and western parts of the city. The water is sweeping everything before it. There is no communication north by telegraph. The flood is the greatest ever known here.

BALTIMORE, July 24—10 P. M.—The flood to-day subsided as suddenly as it arose. Shortly after 4 P. M. the water was carried off within the banks of Jones' Falls. At this hour, the damage cannot be proximately estimated, but none of the estimates place it below $3,000,000. Hundreds of stores were submerged, and many hogsheads of molasses were entirely destroyed. A number of buildings and stores were undermined and damaged.

BALTIMORE, July 25.—Nearly all the bridges on the N. C. Railway for 14 miles out are gone. The trains, however, run to and from Cockeysville from the north ward, and the bridges on the Baltimore and Ohio Road beyond Ellicott City were greatly damaged and carried away. The cars run to Washington, but not westward. The details of the destruction and loss of life at Ellicott's Mills, now called Ellicott City, are appalling.—The water rose suddenly to ten feet higher than ever before known. Gambrell's lower Patapsco flour mill was swept away, and with it two men, one named William Steel, and the other Snyder. Mr. Steel was afterwards seen clinging to a log, and it is said was saved. Gambrell's upper mill was partially destroyed. The extensive granite cotton mill of Benjamin Deford, said to have cost $160,000, is a total ruin. In it Mr. McCauley, a night watchman, lost his life. Gray's large granite cotton factory has been considerably damaged. The house of Mr. Boone, the superintendent of the works, and the gardener's house are gone, but their families were saved.

The entire row of houses between the turnpike bridge and the Patapsco Mills are all swept away. Dr. T. B. Owing's new house was carried by the water across the alley which divides it from Palmer's row, and his wife and six children climbed to the roof of Mr. William H. Fountain's dwelling, there only to await destruction in a few minutes. The flood carried off the house of Mr. Fountain, who is the head miller at Gambrell's mill, himself, wife, and daughter, the wife and six children of Dr. Owing who had there sought protection, and four colored servants. Mr. William Patridge, a mechanic, 60 years old, with his wife and grand-daughter, are lost. Among the others carried away with their houses, are William Patterson, wife, and son; Mrs. Farror and her two grand-children, Fannie and Emma Duvall; William Reese, a wheelwright, wife, son, and daughter. Dr. Owing was on the opposite side of the road after his house had gone, and was told that his family was in the adjoining one, and standing there saw it too driven to destruction, unable to give the least assistance. He has only two children left, who were away from home.

The stores of George T. Bradley and Joseph H. Leipher, with all their goods, are gone. Mr. Leipher succeeded in saving his books. The body of a lady was rescued from the water at Ilchester. She was not quite dead, and every effort was made to revive her, but very little hopes of her recovery were entertained. The large railroad bridge at Ilchester is an entire wreck; in fact, all the bridges over the Patapsco, as far down as the Relay House, are destroyed. The Avalon Nail and Iron Works, near the Relay House, have been swept away. No lives are supposed to have been lost.—The Union Company's Cotton Mill, half a mile above Ellicott city, is said to have been badly damaged and much cotton lost. The loss at Ellicott city is estimated at over a million of dollars, and fifty to sixty lives are lost Provision have been made in Baltimore to provide for those in real want, and the same at Ellicott city. Swan lake, the feeder of the Baltimore Water Works, has not gone, but is badly damaged. There was death and destruction among the rats, millions of them being drowned.

"I like Grant," said a German shoemaker the other day, "because he don't blow. He minds his own business, and makes no fuss about it."

Brief Items.

Handsomely improved: the Franklin house.

The best news for a month: the general rains last week.

The best change in circulation last week was the change of weather.

Long trails are said to be going out of fashion. What will we do for our streets?

The Tyrone Herald is to be enlarged to the size of other county papers. Glad to hear it.

About: the tax collectors. They look as well as might be expected under the circumstances.

Not dead yet: the Grant and Colfax Club in this place. It will be heard from before you can Say more.

A Convention of School Superintendents will be held in Harrisburg, commencing on Thursday, the 30th of July.

July has been a hot month everywhere, but August, somebody says, is going to be cooler. Hope so.

J. R. Durborrow, Esq., has retired from the chair editorial of the Bedford Inquirer. We are sorry to miss him from the fraternity.

Two men named Thos. Oldham and Henry Moyer died in Bedford county from sunstroke during the recent hot spell.

William Bathurst, Deputy Sheriff of this county, has been appointed Deputy Marshal for this District. A good appointment.

Nature benevolently guards the rose with thorns, while art just as benevolently guards the woman with pins. Ouch!

There was a delightful rain fell here on Friday morning. The parched corn and roasted potatoes were badly in need of it.

A man named George Reger was drowned in the Conemaugh river near Cambria boro., while bathing.

The mail train west on Monday a week, run over a man named John Hodgerd, at Johnstown Station, and instantly killed him.

Now promising: the corn and late potatoes. The farmers look more pleasant, and can be approached by the candidates.

The children of the Methodist Sunday School and their parents, will hold a pic-nic at Cottage Grove on Saturday next.

A man named Dixon has been lodged in jail for committing an assault and battery upon old Mr. Gayton and the constable at Mapleton.

During the 4th, 5th and 6th of July, 63,004 passengers were conveyed over the Penna. Railroad, and we were one of them, we was.

Mr. John Widman, of Conemaugh boro., while crossing a bridge slipped and fell a distance of eighteen feet. He died shortly after from internal injuries.

A husband complains bitterly of the price of ducks. His wife recently bought them for $225, viz: a "duck" of a dress, a "duck" of a bonnet, and a "duck" of a parasol.

Mr. Burchinell has made a public bath in the Juniata near the Grove. Some of those who have tried it say like the woman who was baptised, "O, it's bully."

The truth of Cowper's saying, that "God made the country and man made the town," is more fully realized now than at any other period.

Two men fishing; sharp boy appears. "Well, sir, git any bites?" "Lots of 'em." "Y-o-e, under your hat." Race between boy and stones—boy a little ahead.

A little girl named Roscop, of Lewistown, was badly burned by stepping into a lot of hot coal that had just been thrown out of a furnace at a tannery.

Some mean fellow entered the office of our Mount Union cotemporary, and pied, i. e., knocked down, several items of his matter. The editor is after him with a sharp stick to make a copy of him.

The annual meeting of the Pennsylvania State Teachers' Association will be held at Allentown, commencing Tuesday, August 14th, to continue three days. We would like to have it held here next year.

An eastern cotemporary says, "We should not want to itemize in print what the ladies tell us is a comfortable costume when the mercury is at melting 98." And pray, why not; wouldn't others like to know?

Two young apple orchards on Raystown branch on the farms of Mr. A. B. Shenefelt, have been almost completely destroyed by the locusts depositing their ovum in the branches. On other farms on the branch young fruit trees have been very much injured.

The Methodist National Camp Meeting at Manheim, Lancaster county, held for ten days, a week ago, was an immense gathering. The tents numbered five hundred, and seats were provided for three thousand persons. The crowd in attendance on Sunday last a week was estimated at from ten to fifteen thousand.

The iron fence around the Catholic church property in this borough has been completed. The fence is made and painted in imitation of hickory, and was put up at great expense, but it adds greatly to the beauty and value of that corner. We understand that the Methodist church talk of getting one like it.

A man named Joseph Clark was caught between the platforms of two cars at the yard in Altoona and so much injured that when the cars parted he fell upon the track and was caught by the brakebars of one of the cars and rolled over the ties, breaking his back and otherwise injuring him to such an extent that he died in a few minutes.

The Democracy of Blair county on Tuesday last nominated the following ticket, which is to be beaten next fall by about 600 majority: Assembly, Jas. Funk, of Duncansville; Register and Recorder, Capt. Frank Cassiday, of Newry; District Attorney, S. M. Woodkok, of Altoona; Treasurer, M. L. Bechtol, of Hollidaysburg; Commissioner, H. Fettinger, of Altoona; Auditor, ——— McGonigal, of Tyrone; Surveyor, Christian Hileman, of Frankstown; Director of the Poor, James Stevens, of Juniata.

Terrible Tragedy at Altoona.

Thomas Merklein, of Mechanicsburg, was employed in the Pennsylvania railroad shops at Altoona, where he labored for a considerable time.—He there made the acquaintance of a young lady named Seibert, to whom he became devoutedly attached and finally the two were betrothed, but, because he took to drinking, it is said, Miss S. recently saw proper to break the engagement. Merklein made repeated efforts, since, to obtain her consent to a union, but without avail. On Friday evening last he quit work as usual, but did not return next morning. During the forenoon (Saturday) he visited the residence of the Seibert family, and obtained a private interview with Miss S. He again endeavored to gain her consent to marry him. She refused, at the same time stating her cause for so doing, whereon Merklein drew a pistol, and pointing it to her heart, fired, at the same time declaring that she should not become the wife of any one. Immediately after firing, he turned the pistol towards his own head, and shot himself, producing instant death. Fortunately, Miss Seibert was not fatally wounded, the bullet having entered her arm near the shoulder.

Camp Meeting.

A Camp Meeting will be held on the "Old Taylor Ground," near Isaac Taylor's, Cassville charge, M. E. Church, commencing August 28th, 1868. By the help of the Lord, we intend to make a grand rally; hundreds have been blessed on this ground in years past, some of them now in glory—may the Divine spirit be poured out without measure upon us this year! We wish to give notice that no huckster wagons, confectioneries, or picture cars will be allowed within the limits of the law. Our friends or adjoining charges are earnestly invited to join us with their tents. S. CREVELING, Pastor.

How to Build up a Town.

Our citizens can read the following and think over it at their leisure:

"The Cincinnati Enquirer states that a few days ago a gentleman visited Wooster, Ohio, looking for a site on which to locate a paper mill. As soon as his errand was known the business men of the place, instead of raising their rents and the price of lots, at once proposed to furnish him, free of cost, a suitable site and a steam engine to run his machinery. He accepted the proposition and is making arrangements to erect a mill that will cost about $35,000."

Sold.

The estate of Jesse Cook, dec'd., on Broad Top, was sold at public sale on Thursday last for $29,897 50. The coal tract of 275 acres, with two good openings, was purchased by Thomas Fisher & Sons of this place for $25,250. Also four lots in Broad Top City with store and double dwelling for $1017. The farm near Cassville was purchased by R. M. Speer, Esq., of this place.

Theft.

A colored boy named Wm. Chilton was arrested in Harrisburg on the 22d inst, on the charge of stealing a pair of pants, vest, a pair of shirt studs, and set of jet sleeve buttons, from B. Priest of this place. A search was made and the stolen articles found in his possession. He was brought to the jail in this place on Saturday.

The Delicate and Infirm.

The most incredulous are convinced of the virtues of Speer's "Standard Wine Bitters" upon a trial of them.—Their base is pure wine, with herbs and roots, so favorably known to the Medical Profession and the community at large. They are all that can be desired by the most feeble and infirm. Druggists sell the Bitters.

☞Fisher & Sons will sell at public sale at Huntingdon Mills, Thursday, 13th day of August, at 10 o'clock, A. M., one Chester White Boar, 6 Sows and 15 Pigs of different age. Also 31 head of Sheep. The Hogs are all thoroughbred Chester Whites from the best stock in Chester County. 2t.

DEAR GLOBE.—Having a few days ago absented myself from the ancient town of Huntingdon, and seeking a quiet spot where I could repose from the din and tumult of a busy life—the high appreciation I have always maintained for the Globe, and the esteem I cherish for the inhabitants of my native place, induce me to trespass on the columns of your worthy paper for a description of the secluded village, where I am sojourning. The Summit is situated on the most elevated part of the Allegheny mountain, one mile from Cresson Station, on the Pennsylvania Railroad. This village contains about 200 inhabitants. It is noted for its pure air and beautiful scenery of its mountains. The little cottages neatly surrounded by shade trees and shrubbery, all tell to travelers that their inmates are industrious and happy people. There are some magnificent walks around the town, and in particular one which I can not allow to pass by without at least trying to give a vivid description of. It was once the old Portage Railroad, having long since been abandoned for speedier yankee ingenuity; the downy moss has spread its mantle of green o'er the earth, that once was the principal and the only road of transportation. On either side are now grown up spruce and pine trees, sweet brier and laurel combined, twining among the small trees, make it a perfect hedge; a spring of water bubbling up pure and unadulterated, nature hid under a cluster of shrubbery, invites the traveler to indulge and be refreshed. This romantic stroll is known as the lovers' retreat. Cresson Springs, the fashionable resort, is located one mile from the Summit; it is thronged with guests from various cities, some seeking pleasure, others to improve their health. Among the persons of notoriety are Mrs. Lincoln, Bob and Tad; they create quite a sensation. I understood confidently that Mr. S. H. L. of Cresson, was playing the agreeable to Mrs. L. The springs are situated in a delightful spot, and 'tis only those who have seen it can imagine how beautiful the grounds are. I expect to return to H soon, but not without feeling sad that I must leave this quiet little retreat. Dear Globe, I will say au revoir, and should I remain you will hear from H again. **

In pursuance of previous notice, the citizens of Scottsville and vicinity met in the Town Hall on Saturday evening, for the purpose of organizing a Grant and Colfax Club. The meeting organized by electing Dr. J. F. Thompson, Chairman, and Henry Hudson, Secretary. On motion, P. H. Bonce stated the object of the meeting, &c., after which S. McVitty, Esq., Thos. L. Utly and H. Hudson, were selected as a committee to report at the next meeting, rules and regulations to govern the proposed Club.

S. McVitty was called upon to address the audience on the "necessity of an organization of this kind in this township," which he done in an able and eloquent manner, referring in the course of his remarks, very pointedly to the record of the standard bearer of the opposition party. It now being late, the meeting adjourned to meet on the evening of the 25th at which time the organization will be completed. The meeting was well attended, and we are pleased to note, that quite a number of the "fair sex" were present, and seemed to be deeply interested in the proceedings.

The news of the nomination of Seymour and Blair, fell like a wet blanket upon most of the "faithful" in this locality. Seymour seems to be a very bitter pill for the conservative soldiery to swallow. But the stout hearted "faithful" think they can get some of the soldiers to "worry" him down body and breeches, as he is sugar coated, and covered over very nicely with a General, F. P. Blair. We are strongly of the opinion that the bitter record of both of these candidates, and the men who nominated them, will ooze out through the nice coating they have, sufficient at least, that the brave soldiery cannot stomach them.

The friends of the nominees of the Union Party in this township, are awaking up, and from present appearances, you may expect to hear a loud report from the "Grand gun" in this locality. JUDGE.

Brick Pomeroy did get a sprinkling of truth in his paper for once, when he wrote of the New York Convention that "over $100,000 were paid out to buy delegates away from Pendleton between the 1st and 4th of July," and that "it is now as we write, as it has been for some months, and will ever be in the future, a warfare between the slimy, corrupt, reckless, dishonest, money-using political tricksters of New York, and the young Democracy of the great West."

Dangerous Whitewashing.

Mr. Pendleton supports Mr. Seymour, he says, because he is in favor of taxing the bonds and against paying them; the World supports Mr. Seymour because, as it holds, he is in favor of paying, but not taxing them.—Vance of North Carolina, Wise of Virginia, and Toombs of Georgia, support Mr. Seymour, as a friend of the late Confederacy; the World, on the other hand, is engaged in an attempt to prove that no one was more vehemently loyal, or more active in helping to put down the Rebellion, than Mr. Seymour.

The World insists that Mr. Seymour put down the New York riot; that without Mr. Seymour's timely and energetic measures of help, Lee would have beaten Meade at Gettysburg; that Mr. Seymour, in fact, did a great deal, and with extraordinary vigor, to put down the Rebellion.

We do not mean now to dispute with the World on this question, though it might very justly be said that if what Mr. Seymour did injured the cause of Davis, what he said, and the manner in which he acted and spoke often in critical moments encouraged the Rebel leaders and alarmed and discouraged the supporters of the Union. But does not the World perceive that its manner of supporting Mr. Seymour is weak, and injurious rather than helpful to him? It demands Mr. Seymour's election on the score of his services during the war. But all that imputes to him of devotion to the Union compares after all but poorly with Grant's record; and if service to the Union, and against Rebellion, are to be made the test of merit, the Republican party must carry the day, without question.

The truth is, Mr. Seymour "supported" the war as the Whigs "supported" the Mexican war, and as the Federalists "supported" the war of 1812; he entered it, because he could not help himself; he spoke against it and against those who thought the war just, righteous, and unavoidable; he was elected Governor by those voters who were opposed to the war, who expected and hoped for its failure, and who imagined Davis to be a far greater statesman than Lincoln, and thought "the South"—as they called the secessionists—right and deserving of success.

There is no doubt that these people believed that Mr. Seymour, if elected, would effectively serve their purpose, which was so to embarrass the Government as to compel it to withdraw the Union armies, and give the victory to the rebel leaders. There is no doubt either that the violent secessionists were disappointed in Mr. Seymour's administration—and for the very good reason that Mr. Seymour is a man who talks, but does not act. They expected that with him in power at Albany the great State of New York would be placed in direct opposition to the General Government, and that the example of New York under Seymour would have a disorganizing effect in other States. So, too, in the Southern States, the election of Mr. Seymour caused great rejoicing; the rebel newspapers encouraged their leaders to hope for "great events" in New York, favorable to the fortunes of the Confederacy; the rebel leaders plucked up fresh courage, and urged their soldiers to renewed efforts, by telling them of the hopeful election of Seymour.

To a certain extent Mr. Seymour, as Governor, justified the hopes of the secessionists, North and South. He appointed such men as John A. Green and Walter S. Church, notorious sympathizers with the Rebellion, to important commands in the State militia—and thus, as everybody remembers, spread alarm and uneasiness among the friends of the Union cause, and made the hearts of the secessionists beat high with hope. Moreover, his language caused a very general belief that he was opposed to and would resist the conscription, which had then become necessary. His whole attitude was one of hostility; for months he was regarded as an element of danger, both by the authorities at Washington and by the supporters of the Union everywhere; and, on the other hand, the enemies of the Union, the friends of the Rebellion, and the rebels themselves, were filled with joyous expectation of what he would probably do.

But it is Mr. Seymour's way to sit down between two stools; to try to please both sides; to talk loudly and act mildly. When the crisis came—when poor Lee marched into Pennsylvania on that foolish campaign in which he vainly looked for a rising in his favor—Governor Seymour so far disappointed the expectations of his friends, that they openly cursed him for "going back on them," as they phrased it. If Governor Seymour had seen the authorities at Washington flinch, he might have been encouraged to carry out the policy of opposition to the war. But finding the Government firm, he wisely succumbed. In fact, he may, perhaps, be called the victim of two circumstances, named Stanton and Dix.

But we do not think his record in the war, in itself, of surpassing importance, or even of great consequence.—We have discussed it chiefly to show what manner of man Mr. Seymour is; a man of an unsteady purpose; a man who would keep the country in turmoil and alarm, if he should become President; who would keep alive the hopes of factionists, as Mr. Johnson has done, by his words, and by his less important acts; and who would yet, in all probability—unless he were subject to the influence of the more reckless Blair—disappoint the factionists, just as Mr. Johnson has disappointed them.

Now we believe that no greater harm could befall the country than to have, during the next four years, a President of this temper and spirit.—What the country needs is peace, quiet, certainty, rest from political excitement—or rather from political suspense. This it can have only under a President of agreeable temper, of a firm will, and of a simple, but assured policy. "Let us have peace," wrote Grant; and that is the best and the sufficient platform.

The nation needs a ruler in general sympathy with what has been done; one who will not either tear up, or allow others to tear up, what has been painfully, and perhaps in some cases blunderingly accomplished, but yet is actually done. It needs a man who will with a firm, regular hand, with a sure eye, maintain peace and order; it requires, in fact, a captain of police, and the victor of Fort Donelson, Vicksburg, Chattanooga, and Appomatox Court House; the man who dispersed the great Southern riot, is assuredly a more capable officer than he whose first impulse, when forced to face a mutiny, was to coddle the mutineers, and promise them that they should have what they wanted.

It is not the Northern States which would be most injured by Mr. Seymour's election to the Presidency, but the Southern. It is of extreme importance to the people of these States, white or black, that society should proceed there, henceforth, upon a regular and orderly system. For ourselves we have not been overly particular, as our readers know, what that system should be, so long as all men were alike free—alike in the equal enjoyment of rights of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. We have believed that, these things granted, all needful reforms would be surely obtained.

But we see harm and danger, and only these, in any policy which would now overturn what has been achieved, and bring confusion and disorder, where at last there is a promise of order and system. Therefore, we conceive that even those who are not convinced that the Congressional policy of reconstruction is the wisest, should yet resist its overthrow, now that it has done its work. And the way to do that is to vote for Grant, and against Seymour. For the election of Grant means peace; the election of Seymour means four years more of wrangling, of derangement and disorder in our affairs; it means a vacillating policy, a weak ruler; a man at the helm who cannot keep the ship steady, and who may mismanage and founder her.

SPECIAL NOTICE.
TO THE LADIES.—Do you really intend to cease wearing the beautiful styles now so prevalent, or dress less elegantly, because the rebel Jeff. Davis, was captured in Fashionable Female attire? One moment's calm reflection will surely serve to change your fresh resolve. The angels had too much good sense to lay aside their pure chaste robes of white, because they had for a time served to hide the deformities of that Prince of Rebels, the Devil. Can you err in following the example of Angels? Then having made up your minds that you will continue to dress tastefully regardless of rebel acts, do not forget to call at the store of the subscribers, who will be happy at all times to furnish you with such articles of dress as you may desire. Urge your fathers, husbands, brothers, neighbors and children to visit the same store. They can here be suited in good articles of Boots, Shoes, Clothing Material, Hats, Caps, Queensware and a general assortment of Groceries, on as reasonable terms as at any House in town. Store on Southeast corner of the Diamond, Huntingdon, Pa.
